ABOUT LOGAN

The small town of Logan, West Virginia is surrounded by the beauty of the Appalachian Mountains. This rustic, wilderness setting is inviting, as is the hospitality of the Appalachian people. Families here have deep roots in this community, and many have coal mining as a prominent part of their family story and livelihood. However, just as the mountains here provide beauty and a means by which to live, they also create isolated communities. The rural, self-contained nature of communities like Logan creates significant economic challenges.

SERVING IN LOGAN

- Serve through painting, cleaning, yard work or other simple work projects.
- Plan and lead kids' programming for children in the community, including Bible lessons, games, crafts and reading.
- Plan and facilitate sports-based programming for community youth.
- Because of the relational nature of these projects, students will remain at the same service sites through the week.

COMMUNITY EXPERIENCE

You and your youth will have the opportunity to spend significant time building relationships in Logan by working at the same service site all week. Our Kids' Club in Logan meets a real need in the community, as there are not many options of things for kids and teens to do during the summer months. There is also greater cultural diversity at Logan's Kids' Club than one might typically expect to find in a small Appalachian town. YouthWorks Work Projects include minor home repair, painting, and yard work; depending on the skills of adult leaders in your group, there may also be opportunities to build wheelchair ramps or do other home rehab projects. In the evenings, visit Chief Logan State Park, experience an evening of line dancing and bluegrass music at the Delbarton Opry House, and enjoy a night of food and fellowship at a community cookout to wrap up the week.

YOUTHWORKS RELATIONSHIP

YouthWorks has been serving in Logan since 2002, and New Covenant Fellowship has been our housing partner that entire time. We've closely partnered with and been advised by local community advocates, who have helped us understand how best to serve their town. These relationships have opened doors for substantial work projects and growing and dynamic programming for local children and teens.
